

Building Better Families
through Action

BBFA Parent Education Program

November 3, 2016

10:00am

7275 Wing Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills

Technology & Kids

A Practical Guide to Parenting in the Digital Age

Presented by

Julie Fisher, M.Ed.

BBFA Executive Director & Founder, The Social U

Raising digital kids is no easy task. Join us for a free parent program that will include:

- Cell phone etiquette
- Rules for smart phones
- Creating smart passwords
- How texting is easily misunderstood and can cause friendship problems
- What to do if kids experience cyberbullying
- Why kids are careless
- Screen-time
- Examples of what not to post online
- What you should never share online
- Social media rules & site ages for use
- Gaming
- Good/Bad Apps
- Tech Addiction

This program is free and open to the public. There is no need to pre-register. For more information on this or other BBFA programs visit us online at www.bbfaprevention.org

BBFA is a nonprofit organization that promotes healthy families by actively educating, informing and providing tools to parents and the community about healthy parenting as well as the prevention of substance abuse and other destructive behaviors.

Community Partner

248.419.2380 phone info@bbfaprevention.org email
www.bbfaprevention.org